

A public screening of a new documentary
For The Bible Tells Me So followed by a panel discussion on the division in churches over homosexuality and the impact on families in Aotearoa

Dr Mark Henrickson—Lavender Islands study of lesbian, gay and bisexual New Zealanders
Elizabeth Kerekere—Out There! Queer Youth Development Project
Rev. Fraser Paterson—Presbyterian Minister

"Daniel G. Karlake's remarkable documentary boldly takes on a loaded topic — Christianity and homosexuality — and examines it both intellectually and emotionally; the result may well leave you blinking away a few tears."
- Seattle Times

7pm Tuesday 30 September
St Andrew's on The Terrace

Admission by donation

At a time when the issue of homosexuality is polarising the Church on an unprecedented scale, this compassionate and insightful new documentary focuses on some of those caught in the crossfire. Through the experiences of five Christian families we discover how insightful people of faith handle the realization of having a gay child.

Informed by such respected voices as Bishop Desmond Tutu, the film also provides a useful deconstruction of the arguments used to justify homophobia by the church, and explains the cultural and historical context of the biblical verses that are frequently misinterpreted as condemning homosexuality.

For more information contact: office@standrews.org.nz / 04 472 9211